EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations have the effect of allowing women to drive private-hire taxis, i.e., those hired by prior arrangement with the operators' headquarters as opposed to those which ply or stand for hire in the streets.

The Regulations also prescribe the form of medical certificate required by the Ministry in connection with applications for P.S.V. drivers' licences, and revise the application forms for drivers' and conductors' licences to require disclosure of any previous offences instead of as formerly only those committed in connection with public service vehicles.
