CAP. LXXXVIII.

An Act to amend an Act of the last Session of Parliament, for rendering more easy and effectual Redress for Assaults in Ireland. [14th June 1815.]

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the last Session of Parliament, intituled An Act to render more easy and effectual Redress for Assaults in Ireland, it is amongst other Things enacted, that when it shall appear that any Defendant against whom any Sum for Costs and Expences shall have been awarded on a Trial and Conviction, in Manner therein mentioned, has not any Goods or Chattels on which such Sum can be levied, as therein provided, it shall and may be lawful for the Grand Jury, at the Assizes at which such Trial shall be had, to make a Presentment for levying such Sum, in Manner in the said Act mentioned: And whereas the Trials in those Cases in which Costs are by the said Act authorized to be given, usually take place at Sessions of the Peace, and not at the Assizes; and it is reasonable that the same Provision should be extended to such Cases; be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the Advice and Consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the Authority of the same, That from and after the passing of this Act it shall and may be lawful for the Grand Jury, at every Assize and Presenting Term in Ireland, to make one or more Presentment or Presentments for levying, in like Manner as in the said Act is mentioned, all and every such Sum and Sums as at any Time subsequent to the First Day of the then immediate preceding Assizes for such County shall or may, at any Session of the Peace held in and for such County, or in and for any District or Place within such County, have been ordered or adjudged to be paid
