CHAP. 19.

An Act for exempting persons professing the Jewish religion from penalties in respect of young persons and females professing the said religion working on Sundays. A.D. 1871.

[25th May 1871.]

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law for the purpose of exempting persons professing the Jewish religion from penalties in respect of young persons and females professing the said religion working on Sunday:

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Exemption from penalties as to Jews.

1. No penalty shall be incurred by any person in respect of any work done on Sunday either in a workshop or in the tobacco manufacture by any young person or woman professing the Jewish religion; provided that,

(1.) The workshop or manufactory is in the occupation of a person professing the Jewish religion, is on Saturday closed until sunset, and is not open for traffic on Sunday:

(2.) That such workshop or manufactory is open on Sundays to the officers duly authorised by The Factory and Workshop Act, 1867:

(3.) The total number of hours of labour of such young person or woman in any one week or day or period of twenty-four hours at such workshop or manufactory does not exceed the total number of hours of labour in any one week or day or period of twenty-four hours allowed by The Workshop Regulation Act, 1867.

A.D. 1871.

Definition of workshop.

2. "Workshop" shall mean workshop as defined by The Workshop Regulation Act, 1867.
