EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These regulations modify the Local Government Superannuation Acts, 1937 to 1953, and regulations made thereunder and local Act superannuation schemes in connection with the operation of the National Insurance Act, 1959. The regulations are designed principally to secure that contributions and benefits under those Acts are reduced to take account of graduated contributions and benefits under the Act of 1959.

Part I of the regulations contains definitions of the terms used and provides generally that the Acts, schemes and regulations governing the superannuation of local government employees are to be modified in accordance with the succeeding provisions of the regulations.

Part II provides for the reduction of contributions and certain other payments. During periods when graduated contributions are payable under the Act of 1959 superannuation contributions payable by employer and employee will be reduced at the rate of one per cent. per annum of the employees' remuneration, subject to certain limits. This is inclusive of the reduction which is already made in connection with contributions paid under the National Insurance Act, 1946. This combined reduction is varied in the case of persons whose contributions are not subject to reduction in connection with the Act of 1946 or whose contributions are subject to a special rate of reduction. Transfer values and certain payments for the reckoning of additional years of service are varied to take account of periods when modified contributions have been paid.

Part III provides for the reduction of superannuation benefits. Where account is taken of a period of service or employment for the purposes both of a local government pension and of graduated retirement benefit the local government pension for that period will be reduced, subject to certain limits, at the rate of one-two hundred and fortieth of the employee's retiring remuneration for each year of contributing service and one-four hundred and eightieth for each year of non-contributing service. This is inclusive of any reduction required to be made in the pension in connection with benefit payable under the Act of 1946. This combined reduction is varied in the case of persons whose pensions are not subject to reduction in connection with the Act of 1946 or whose pensions are subject to a special rate of reduction. Short service grants, death grants and payments in respect of returned contributions may be reduced where a payment in lieu of contributions has been made to secure benefit under the Act of 1959.

Part IV modifies the Local Government Superannuation (Administration) Regulations, 1954, to provide that notifications to an employee of his superannuation rights will include particulars of the modifications made by Parts II and III of these regulations, and provides for the exchange between local authorities concerned of information with regard to such modifications.

Part V modifies the Local Government Superannuation (Actuarial Valuations) Regulations, 1954, to provide that the statutory reports by actuaries on local authority superannuation funds are to contain information with regard to the persons affected by Parts II and III of these regulations.
